

專班特色英文簡介

Our department comprises two fields of media studies: creative animation and film, interactive media and game design. Students will master creative production skills, and explore the economic, cultural and historical relationship between media and society. Students are able to realize their educational objectives within a creative nexus that fully embraces, informs and enriches their academic journey.

Our curriculum focuses on a foundational aesthetics education for digital media design, and provides the resources and the environment to cultivate students of digital design and computer technology.

Students will master creative production skills, and explore the economic, cultural and historical relationship between media and society. We promote professionalism with creativity and the highly competitive strength of our students. Educating students with high quality creative potential prepares them to meet future career challenges.

數媒專業教室

數媒系參訪與活動

